

Non-Fiction Writing

In our English lessons, we have been focusing on non-fiction writing and therefore have become excellent report writers. We have developed our understanding of chronology and non-chronological reports and have created our own pieces of writing. We produced our own news report from a given headline- not knowing what the true article was behind it. We then researched a topic of our own choice to write a non-chronological report. We then worked in teams to create news boards to become news presenters!
